

Caleb Shertzer, Kish Bank Commercial Relationship Manager, speaks to students at Tuscarora Junior High School.

Former Student Returns to Teach Investing Lesson, Share about Career at Kish Bank

November 26, 2018 – Caleb Shertzer, Kish Bank Commercial Relationship Manager, visited Tuscarora Junior High School in Mifflintown, PA on Tuesday, November 20 and taught nearly 250 6-8th grade students an introductory lesson about investing. The students learned the importance of growing money by investing it, the differences between simple and compound interest, recognizing realistic rates of return, and the Rule of 72.

Shertzer, a former student at the school, also shared about his education and career in banking. “It was great to be back and have the opportunity to tell the kids about what I’ve done since junior high and where it’s led me,” Shertzer said.

Shertzer began his career at Kish in 2015 as a Credit Analyst and became a Commercial Relationship Manager in 2016. He graduated from Lycoming College with a degree in Business Administration and Economics.
